

Second Thoughts

By Boreham, F. W.

John Broadbanks Publishing, 2007. Paperback. Condition: New. This book consists of five previously published essays that have been brought together for the first time: "Second-Hand Things," "The Second Crop," "Second Fiddles," "Our Second Wind" and "Second Thoughts." F. W. Boreham draws profound meaning from each of these "second" themes. There are 12 pages of front matter, which include an introduction to F. W. Boreham written for this book by Ravi Zacharias, a preface by Geoff Pound and a contents page. The back of the book has a word "About the Cover" and a "Biographies of Referenced Personalities" section. This is a great introduction to the writings of F. W. Boreham. It starts with what he means to Ravi Zacharias. It also includes the outstanding essay, "The Second Crop," a delightful story that illustrates an obscure biblical text about possessing your possessions. Our first crop comes when we acquire something. The second crop comes when one makes use of it. It's one thing to own a piano; it's another to learn how to play it. This essay alone makes the book worthwhile, but each has its nuggets of truth that Boreham unearths in his typical warm manner.
