The histological characters, although numerous, well defined, and fundamental to the plant in its organization, have been largely overlooked, and their inheritance not considered. In this investigation, special attention has been paid to the microscopical structure of the hybrids studied and to inheritance of histological characters. An effort was also made to determine whether or not there is a definite relation existing between external and internal characters, or a correlation in the inheritance of the two sets of characters. In taking up this study, the first task was to produce hybrids between parents as widely separated in...
