Dog Ear Publishing, United States, 2014. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 280 x 216 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .AUTHOR S BIOGRAPHY This is the first book written by Joyce Austin who grew up in Rhode Island hearing many stories of Guernsey from her father and grandfather. The book was prompted by the birth of another Guernsey cousin and Joyce s wish to pass the family history along to the next generation. Joyce has visited Guernsey several times; the most recent trip being in May 2011 when she and her husband, son and daughter traveled there to celebrate the 100th anniversary of her grandfather s immigration to the US. This book was many years in the making mostly because it was in competition with the other activities in Joyce s life which include working as an oncology social worker, raising children, traveling, singing, riding horses, gardening, and taking photos. She continues to live in New Hampshire with her husband where they are working on enjoying their new status as empty nesters ILLUSTRATOR S BIOGRAPHY Georgianna Ritter spent 10 years of her childhood living on an island which made her the perfect illustrator for this book. From a young age, her teachers in the small school she attended on Block Island, Rhode Island recognized her talent for pencil sketches, ink drawings and lettering. With the encouragement of her teachers she later left the island to attend art school where she excelled at photography and ceramics. Water colors only came into her life as an adult and she says initially she found it too intense. Only after learning to let go of control and perfection could she utilize quick and relaxed movements with the watercolor brush to produce beautiful pictures such as the ones she has created...
