The lights of old Manila one by one Appeared as night came on, and fireflies By thousands flitted in the foliage And made the bamboo and the mango woods Seem like some endless groves of Christmas trees. It was an evening such as oft delight The lovers who go forth to be alone With nature and themselves. About Manila, north and east and south, A long, long line of fires marked the camps Of soldiers who held trenches to defend The place against the Filipino foe; While to the west great war ships floated on The tranquil waters of Manila Bay. The colored, changing signals on their masts And restless searchlights gave strange grandeur to The lovely scene. And northward, near at hand, The roofs of still another city rose, A quaint old city known as Malabon, Where lights gleamed from a thousand nipa huts; While near the Taliahan river, which Ran silently between the city and The rice field on the south, were well-armed troops Of small brown men entrenched in two long lines. And swarming through the streets of Malabon Were also hoards of Filipino men, There to prevent, if possible, with force About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books.
