Forgotten Books, United States, 2015. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from Sight-Seeing in South America Sight-Seeing in South America has not yet been systematized as it has been in Europe, Egypt, India, and Japan. The only Baedeker published is for Argentina, and that is not printed in the English language. The first tourist office was opened in Buenos Aires but a few weeks before our arrival. Tourists are a novelty, and the people are so indifferent about their own objects of interest that the traveler has difficulty in discovering them. The purpose of this book is to make sight-seeing easier for the traveler and to give an idea to the one at home of how much and how well, in a cruise of less than three months from New York, one may see and enjoy of gigantic South America. South America is still largely a seaboard continent. The principal cities are either on the coast, or within easy reach of it. On a cruise one can visit from his ship readily and comfortably the important places of interest. By living on the same ship, there is not a constant change of beds and meals in indifferent hotels, and there is no loss of time from waiting for steamship connections. The Hamburg-American Line, by its winter cruise around South America, is making this great continent of opportunities accessible for the first time to the traveler.
