PILATE S WIFE S DREAM. I ve quench d my lamp, I struck it in that start Which every limb convulsed, I heard it fall--The crash blent with my sleep, I saw depart Its light, even as I woke, on yonder wall: Over against my bed, there shone a gleam Strange, faint, and mingling also with my dream. It sank, and I am wrapt in utter gloom; How far is night advanced, and when will day Re-tinge the dusk and livid air with bloom, And fill this void with warm, creative ray? Would I could sleep again till, clear and red, Morning shall on the mountain-tops be spread! I d call my women, but to break their sleep, Because my own is broken, were unjust; They ve wrought all day, and well-earn d slumbers steep Their labours in forgetfulness,...
