Burns, as Related by Herself* He hath sent me to heal the broken-hearted, to preach deliverance to the captives, and recovery of sight to the blind. T the age of twenty-one I was married and had a pleasant home for myself. Like thousands, who link their destinies with another, mine seemed bright and hopeful. I anticipated no trouble or sorrow. To add to the joy of my home there came to bless us a sweet babe, a daughter. As yet, no cloud had over shadowed our home, nor did I expect any. But how mistaken! I was soon to enter the valley of sorrow. My husband was taken from me; the shadow of death fell upon my household. My dear child was fatherless, and I was a widow. In my loneliness, more than ever, my heart clung to my child. I had not yet learned to look for help and comfort from the true source. She was my only comfort, my all.
