So the candidate for the ministry makes all possible exertions to provide for himself, and then the Board of Education provides moderate help, so that the young man s efforts may not prove fruitless, and also to prevent, as far as possible, the necessity of too much manual labor during term time. We have found this last to be a sore evil. The work of the class-room cannot, in ordinary cases, be properly attended to by the student who is harassed by pecuniary anxieties and is spending many hours of precious time in the business of earning money. We venture to call attention to a recent case by way of illustration. Here is a student highly recommended as a man of much promise. He must be classed as a special, because just...
