Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Winslow Homer Centenary Exhibition: December 15, 1936 to January 15, 1937 C V generations of Yankees. The Homers, a sturdy, long-lived family, had lived in Massachusetts for almost two centuries before Winslow s birth in Boston on February 24, 1836. His people were of the middle class, his father being a hardware merchant. His boyhood was spent in Cambridge, then a country town, where he and his two brothers led a healthy outdoor life. These happy years gave him a love of the country that was to last all his life and to play a large part in his art. Without any regular art education, he drew continually, and at the age of nineteen was apprenticed to a Boston lithographer named Bufford. Here he distinguished himself by his quick, sure draughtsmanship; but his independence was already strong, and he hated the monotony of the work. According to Mr. William Howe Downes, to whose biography we are indebted for most of our information about Homer, he was reserved and fastidious as a young man, seldom showed any affectation, and was noted for his terse speech and brusque humor. In person he was rather short and slender, carrying himself very erect, and with a strong aquiline nose. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books.
