It has, moreover, taken steps to establish at Tabora a great depot for merchandise, whence travellers can obtain supplies, and where payment will be made by letters of exchange either upon Zanzibar or upon some European banker previously appointed. The price of transmitting an English pound sterling from the coast to Tanganyika, comprising the expenses of insurance against loss, will be six francs. The safety of the explorers will be better insured, the route, still very uncertain, will be better fixed, and little by little a limit will be set to the sort of brigandage exercised by the negro chiefs, who, under pretext of the right of way, ruin the caravans. By the aid of the eight stations, which will be soon established between Bagamoyo and Karema, and by sending goods by the society s transports, a traveller will be...
