Forgotten Books, United States, 2016. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from Materia Et Opus: Concerning Elegance in Stationery HE paper on which we communicate our thoughts is as strong in its relief-like relation to those thoughts, as is a background of Titian, or Rubens, or Van Dyke to the portrait it has helped make so marvelously vital. It was, indeed, because these great artists were such masters of character-expression through color - because their genius responded so harmoniously to the nature-themes they were to show in color-tones, that they most profoundly felt the intimate relation of the background to the picture. It is a lesson Polite Society learned so long ago that it may be considered almost an innate quality - that the writing papers with which one's escritoire is supplied, must be as carefully toned to the messages to be sent out on them, as is the delicate film of the photographer's plate to the image it is to receive. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books. Find more at This book is a reproduction of an important historical work.
