Forgotten Books, 2017. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from Irrigation and Related Cultural Practices With Cotton in the Salt River Valley of Arizona The climate Of that section Of southern Arizona represented by the Salt River Valley is characterized by light rainfall, relatively high summer temperatures, low humidity, and mild winters. Meteor ological records kept by the United States Weather Bureau at Phoenix since 1895 show that the mean annual precipitation for the 34-year period from 1895 to 1928, inclusive, has been inches. Since this is distributed over 12 months and much of it in the form of light showers, it has little importance in crop production. The average date of the last Spring frost is given as February 10 and that Of the first frost in the fall as December 4, with a frost free season of 296 days. This is somewhat longer than the actual growing season for much Of the cultivated land. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books.
