Slinging Doughnuts for the Boys: An American Woman in World War II (Paperback)

By James H. Madison

Indiana University Press, United States, 2008. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book. Elizabeth Richardson was a Red Cross volunteer who worked as a Clubmobile hostess during World War II. Handing out free doughnuts, coffee, cigarettes, and gum to American soldiers in England and France, she and her colleagues provided a touch of home-American girls with whom the boys could talk, flirt, dance, and perhaps find companionship. Usually the job was not hazardous-except when V-1 and V-2 rockets rained down on London-but it required both physical endurance and the skills of a trained counselor. Liz Richardson is a witty writer and astute observer. Her letters and diaries reveal an intelligent, independent, and personable woman with a voice that rings true. With commentary by historian James H. Madison, this book is an exceptional window into a past that is all too quickly fading from memory.

Reviews

If you need to adding benefit, a must buy book. It normally fails to cost a lot of Its been designed in an extremely easy way in fact it is just right after i finished reading through this ebook by which basically transformed me, change the way i believe.
