

Sartre's Sink: The Great Writers' Complete Book of DIY

By Crick, Mark.

Granta. 1 Cloth(s), 2008. hard. Book Condition: New. For too long, Do-it-Yourself books have suffered the neglect of the literary establishment. Finally, in this follow-up to Kafka's Soup, Mark Crick gives us a collection of essential DIY tips from the world's greatest writers. Fyodor Dostoyevsky tells of a young man employed by an elderly lady to re-tile her bathroom; Julius Caesar puts up a shelf for his rebellious tribe of adolescenti; and Jean-Paul Sartre is disgusted to discover in a blocked sink the revelation of his own condition. We also learn how to repair a dripping tap as Marguerite Duras would, replace a window pane with a voyeuristic Milan Kundera, and hang wallpaper under the watchful eye of Ernest Hemingway. As in Kafka's Soup, each piece is illustrated with color art purportedly by a famous artist (again impersonated by Crick), including Leonardo, Picasso, and Gorey. "It's short, to the point, and when I read it out in the office, my colleagues laughed like drains." Sunday Times (London) "Parodying everyone from Goethe to Hunter S. Thompson through their handy household hints . it also contains pastiche illustrations which aren't just funny and apt but also rather beautiful." Independent on Sunday (London) "Crick is a brilliant..
