AEGYPAN, 2007. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.Dr. Fitzhugh looked out over the faces of the crewmen. The whole thing can be summed up very quickly, he said. Point one: Snookums brain contains the information that eight years of hard work have laboriously put into it. It s worth billions, so the robot can t be disassembled, or the information would be lost. Point two: Snookums mind is a strictly logical one, but it is operating in a more than logical universe. Consequently, it is unstable. Point three: Snookums was built to conduct his own experiments. To forbid him to do that would be similar to beating a child for acting like a child. Point four: Emotion is not logical. Snookums can t handle it, except in a very limited way. It all adds up to this: Snookums must be allowed the freedom of the ship. Every one of the men was thinking dark gray thoughts. It was bad enough that they had to take out a ship like the Branchell, untested as she was. Was it necessary to have an eight-hundred-pound, moron-genius child-machine running loose, too? * Mike the Angel -- M.R. Gabriel, Power Design -- has devised the power plant that is to propel the space ship Branchell to its secret destination, complete with its unusual cargo. And, as a reserve officer in the Space Patrol, Mike is a logical replacement for the craft s unavoidably detained engineering officer. But once into space, the Branchell becomes the scene of some frightening events -- the medical officer is murdered, and Snookums appears to be the culprit. Mike the Angel indulges himself in a bit of sleuthing, and the facts he turns up lead to a most unusual climax.
